CAR BURNING OIL?

Engineer's Discovery Stops it Quick

Without A Cent For Mechanical Repairs!

If your car is using too much oil—if it is sluggish, hard to start, slow on pickup, lacks pep and power—you are paying good money for oil that's burning up in your engine instead of providing lubrication. Why? Because your engine is leaking. Friction has worn a gap between pistons and cylinder wall. Oil is pumping up into the combustion chamber, fouling your motor with carbon. Gas is exploding down through this gap, going to waste.

SAVE $50 TO $150 REPAIR BILL

Before you spend $50.00 to $150.00 for an engine overhaul, read how you can fix that leaky engine yourself, in just a few minutes, without buying a single new part, without even taking your engine down. It's almost as easy as squeezing toothpaste or shaving cream out of a tube, thanks to the discovery of a new miracle substance called Power Seal. This revolutionary, new compound combines the lubricating qualities of Moly, the "greasy" wonder metal, with the leak-sealing properties of Vermiculite, the mineral product whose particles expand under heat. (Up to 30 times original size.)

Just squeeze Power-Seal out of the tube into your motor's cylinders through the spark plug openings. It will spread over pistons, piston rings and cylinder walls as your engine runs and it will PLATE every surface with a smooth, shiny, metallic film that won't come off! No amount of pressure can scrape it off. No amount of heat can break it down. It fills the cracks, scratches and scorings caused by engine wear. It closes the gap between worn piston rings and cylinders with an automatic self-expanding seal that stops oil pumping, stops gas blow-by and restores compression. No more piston slapping; no more engine knocks. You get more power, speed, mileage.

This genuine plating is self-lubricating too for Moly, the greasy metal lubricant, reduces friction as nothing else can! It is the only lubricant indestructible enough to be used in U. S. atomic energy plants and jet engines. It never drains down, never leaves your engine dry. Even after your car has been standing for weeks, even in coldest weather, you can start it in a flash, because the lubrication is in the metal itself. That's why you'll need amazingly little oil; you'll get hundreds, even thousands of more miles per quart.

TRY IT FREE!

You don't risk a penny. Prove to yourself that Power-Seal will make your car run like new. Put it in your engine on 30 days' Free Trial. If you are not getting better performance out of your car than you thought possible—if you have not stopped oil burning and have not increased gas mileage—return the empty tube and get your money back in full. Power-Seal is absolutely harmless; it cannot hurt the finest car in any way. It can only preserve and protect your motor.

POWER SEAL MAKES WORN OUT TAXI ENGINE RUN LIKE NEW

Here are the Test Engineer's notarized figures showing the sensational increase in compression obtained in a 1950 De Soto taxi that had run for 93,086 miles. Just one POWER SEAL injection increased pep and power, reduced gas consumption, cut oil burning nearly 50%.

	Cyl. 1	Cyl. 2	Cyl. 3	Cyl. 4	Cyl. 5	Cyl. 6
BEFORE	90 lbs.	90 lbs.	105 lbs.	90 lbs.	80 lbs.	100 lbs.
AFTER	115 lbs.	115 lbs.	117 lbs.	115 lbs.	115 lbs.	115 lbs.

BEST INVESTMENT WE EVER MADE, SAYS DRIVER-OWNER

"We simply inserted the POWER SEAL per instructions and made no other repairs or adjustments. Compression readings were taken before and after and showed a big improvement in both cars. As a result the engine gained a lot more pick-up and power which was especially noticeable on hills. What impressed us most was the sharp reduction in oil consumption. In one cab, we've actually been saving a quart a day and figure we have saved $11.20 on oil alone since the POWER SEAL was applied a month ago. In the other cab, oil consumption was cut practically in half. We have also been getting better gas mileage. All in all, POWER SEAL turned out to be just about the best investment we ever made. It paid for itself in two weeks and has been saving money for us ever since, to say nothing of postponing the cost of major overhauls that would have run into real money." Town Taxi, Douglaston, N. Y.

SEND NO MONEY!

Simply send the coupon and your Power-Seal injection will be sent to you at once C.O.D. plus postage and handling charges. Or, to save the postage and handling charges, simply enclose full payment with the coupon. For 6-cylinder cars order the Regular Size, only $4.95. For 8-cylinder cars order the Jumbo Size, $7.95. Power-Seal is now available only by mail from us. Send the coupon at once.

REVENGE

HIS face a tight mask of dirt, sweat and exhaustion, Frank Mann leaned against an ancient rubber tree at the edge of the clearing. The night rains of Malaya began to beat down on the dense, jungle foliage overhead and he was struck by the familiarity of the scene before him. The plantation house and the outbuildings were now ramshackle and the bomb blasted side of the house was a grim reminder that for the second time in six years, this peninsula rubber empire was again in the grip of war, only this time it was called revolution.

He checked his chronometer and with minutes to spare before he went into the old house to meet Lo See, he reviewed those earlier days in his mind. Then, as an infantry Lieutenant, leading a small patrol through the enemy infested jungle, his life had been saved and his patrol hidden, by the good Cho Sen family who owned this rubber plantation. When it was safe to move, they fought the jungle out to the small river and escaped to sea and a U.S. ship.

"Why," he mused, "it must be near this very spot where we hid that metal box of ammunition and covered it with underbrush so that old Mr. Cho Sen could get to it if he needed it after helping us escape." And he moved quietly over to the spot behind the remains of the servants' house. Sure enough, beneath two feet of heavy underbrush was the rusty metal box, the top still clamped tight shut. Maybe if old Cho Sen had remembered that cache of ammunition when the revolutionaries attacked the plantation, his elderly wife wouldn't be an impoverished widow and Frank Mann wouldn't be returning now to retrieve the only remaining vestige of the once vast fortune of the Cho Sen clan—the Cho Sen sapphire.

A rustle at the other side of the clearing brought him to sharp attention and through the mists and falling rain, he discerned the bent, running figure of a native scurrying into the plantation house. Frank glanced at the time and thought, "It must be the servant, Lo See, and right on the button." Madam Cho Sen's message had gotten through the Malayan underground to Lo See, the trusted family servant, who, at the last, had helped Madam escape safely when the reds suddenly attacked the plantation. He then returned to bury his murdered master and melted into the masses of unidentified Malaysians on the peninsula. He was to lead Frank Mann to the underground room beneath the house and then, armed with the secret of the hiding place known only to Madam Cho Sen, Frank would find the sapphire, pay the trusted Lo See a handsome sum for his trouble, and then fight his way through the rotting underbrush to the river inlet. There the sea-going sampan lay hidden, waiting to speed him to open water and the safety of the small freighter that would weigh anchor at dawn.

He slipped out into the clearing and as the pelting rain now hit him full force he was grateful for the cover of the old army raincoat. Frank sloshed through the mud to the plantation door, feeling, all of a sudden, as though many eyes pierced the sheets of falling rain and drilled into his back. "Pure fancy," he thought. "The reds gave up hunting the sapphire when Madam Cho Sen escaped. They couldn't keep this deserted plantation under constant surveillance."

Once inside the house, he walked through to the kitchen and Lo See slipped out of the shadows, a covered lantern in hand. "Lieutenant Mann, you come in good time."

"Hi, Lo See," replied Mann, "I bring you the greetings of Madam Cho Sen and her deepest gratitude." The Malayan bowed deeply and then turned to lead the way into the pantries.

"Madam must extend her gratitude to you, too, Lieutenant, since you risk your life to return here for her family jewel," said Lo See. "I owe my life to the Cho Sens. This is merely a partial repayment for it," said Frank.

By this time they were at the back of the second small pantry and Lo See shoved sharply on the bottom of the narrow back wall and it slapped back at him like a walled-in ironing board. Stone steps led downward. The room at the foot of the stairs was as Madam Cho had described it, stone walls, chill and damp, and empty of all but a small table and chair. Recalling her detailed instructions, Frank hastily stepped onto the table and with the butt of his gun, sharply tapped on the lower center of the top corner stone. Directly below, at floor level, a stone swung out into the room. Lo See caught his breath as Frank jumped to the floor and placing his gun on the table, he drew out a small box. The springed lid flew up to display the glittering magnificence of the fabulous Cho Sen Sapphire. And Frank looked up to greet the business end of his own automatic, clutched in the hand of a wild-eyed Lo See. "Thank you for leading me to it, Lieutenant Mann," snarled Lo See, "I've searched for many months, ever since I had Madam Cho Sen shipped out of the country." Frank's surprise was evident, "But your reward—" he muttered. Lo See made himself clear in a hurry. "I'm an agent for the opposition forces and when they arrive momentarily to take you into custody, I shall deliver the jewel to our leader to aid in the glorious victory of our forces and also take Madam's reward."

Wearing an unbelieving expression, Frank stepped forward, his hand stretched out with the jewel box in it. Confidently, Lo See reached—for disaster. Frank lashed out with his free hand, sending the gun flying from Lo See's grasp. He followed up with a vicious smash to the jaw, snatched the gun from the floor and jamming the jewel box down the neck of his clothing until he could feel it next to his chest, he raced up the stairs, through the pantries and into the kitchen. He was in time to see them closing in, eight skulking figures coming toward the house. He thought quickly and slipped through the corridor towards the front door as the reds entered the back kitchen. They immediately headed for the pantry where Lo See's lantern below cast a dim light up the steps.

Just outside the front door, Frank laid low the guard, and as he started across the clearing, he heard the hue and cry from the house. He made for the old servants' quarters, a fervent prayer on his lips and a daring plan in his mind. Circling the building, he fell to the ground and with supreme effort, extracted the rusted ammunition box from beneath the underbrush. The clamps came open but the top was stuck fast. Frank could hear the reds as they came upon the unconscious guard and they heard Frank as he smashed his revolver against the box lid and it flew off with a clang. There lay six grenades. A frantic thought hit Frank, "If they're duds after six years—" He didn't have time for more. The reds were moving in slowly now. They knew where he was. He pulled the pin and heaved the first one—not a sound, the hunters hadn't even heard it fall. The second one was another dud. The third one connected and blasted the first batch of reds sky high and before the second contingent could figure an angle the fourth and fifth grenades made themselves known.

As Frank turned to leave, he spotted the white native clothes of Lo See where the last grenade had gone off.

The sampan moved into the harbor just before dawn and as Frank Mann swung up the ladder of the freighter, he felt the jewel box hard against his chest. Madam Cho Sen would have her jewel and Frank Mann had repaid his life's debt in avenging her husband's murder.
